DEFINITIONS OF INSTITUTIONAL MEMBERSHIP AND MEMBERSHIP CATEGORIES

Institutional Membership signifies accreditation. Institutions eligible to apply for Membership include colleges, universities, and independent schools of art and design.

Associate Membership is granted to baccalaureate and/or graduate degree-granting institutions, community/junior colleges, and non-degree-granting institutions applying for the first time that meet all curricular standards and all other applicable standards of the Association, and which are developing in areas related to purposes or operations. Accreditation with Associate Membership is valid for up to five years. At the end of this period, such institutions will be required to demonstrate substantial progress in areas under development and to satisfy all criteria for Membership in the Association.

Membership is granted to baccalaureate and/or graduate degree-granting institutions, community/junior colleges, and postsecondary non-degree-granting institutions meeting all of the standards of the Association. Institutions approved for Membership are granted five-year periods of accreditation. At the end of five years, such institutions are expected to apply for renewal of Membership. Institutions approved for renewal of Membership are granted ten-year periods of accreditation.

NASAD has eligibility and membership rules for accreditation of single professional programs in certain fields (see NASAD Handbook, Rules of Practice and Procedure, Article I, Section 3.G.). If applicable, contact the NASAD National Office or see the Eligibility and Membership Rules for NASAD Accreditation of Single Professional Programs, which supplements the NASAD Procedures documents.

When certain criteria are met, NASAD reviews community education divisions of collegiate-level programs. These are undertaken on the same schedule as reviews for the collegiate art and design unit(s), unless an institution specifically requests a different schedule. More detail is found in the NASAD Procedures for Comprehensive Review.

For more information about institutional membership categories, see the Bylaws, published in the NASAD Handbook.

The standards for all types of institutional Membership are published in the NASAD Handbook and any current addenda.
